LOCAL PASTOR

Meeting With Great Success in Revival at Maysville.

Helping Rev. J. M. Haymore, and Daily Newspaper Pays Him High Tribute.

The Daily Independent, published at Maysville, Ky., contained a long and complimentary article on November 25, concerning the revival meetings now going on at that place and being conducted by Rev. J. M. Haymore, who so successfully held a protracted meeting here last year, and Rev. W. C. Roof, the popular pastor of the Jeffersontown Baptist church. Mr. Roof is a sweet singer of Gospel songs and is doing the singing at Maysville, while Mr. Haymore is doing the preaching, and they are meeting with great success.

Following is an extract from the article in the Independent:

"That the big revival meeting at the First Baptist Church is meeting with such success is only due to the untiring and faithful work of its pastor, Rev. J. M. Haymore, and the man who is assisting him, Rev. W. C. Roof, of Jeffersontown, who is leading the most successful song service ever held here. The crowds of Maysville people who are attending this revival and hearing Rev. Haymore and Rev. Roof are not stopping at one night but coming again and again. The members of the church are also working in unison with their pastor and deserve much for the success of the meeting."

After paying a deserved tribute to Rev. Haymore, the Independent says the following about the life and work of Rev. Roof:

"Born again down in the Southern part of Pennsylvania State, near Mason-Dixon line, Rev. W. C. Roof made his way to Wheaton, Ill., and was educated at Wheaton College, a few miles west of Chicago. His earlier days were spent as a leather and shoe cutter, which he left, entering the ministry. At Wheaton he assisted several students in getting an education, and then he came to Maysville, where he has been for many years. He received his musical education under the tutelage of J. D. Meekins, of Detroit, and was a member of the Choral Society for a number of years. He was also associated with the Maysville Choral Society, and was presented with a beautiful gold watch, which he now possesses, for services rendered to a number of members of the Y. M. C. A. He has been identified with Y. M. C. A. in Ohio and West Virginia. He has conducted meetings in every large city in Kentucky and many of the smaller towns. He has won for himself a great many among men helping men in practically every walk of life on the right path."

OFFICERS

Of Jeffersontown Commercial Club Will Be Elected at Meeting Next Monday Night.

To the public spirited people of Jeffersontown: The term of office of the officers of the Jeffersontown Commercial Club terminates with the next meeting, which will be held at Bruce Hall next Monday, Dec. 4, at 8 o'clock, and it would give me great pleasure to see every citizen of Jeffersontown and vicinity present at that meeting and taking part in the choice of the new officers, as in my opinion this club can be of vast service to this community if properly handled. There are many things that will come up in the next year that will be for our good. Let's organize and be ready for them when they do come. In unity there is strength. United we stand; divided we fall.

Yours truly,
W. J. SIMONIN, President.

BIG TIME

Planned By Jefferson County Democratic Club.

Will Meet Saturday and Complete Arrangements For Attending Inauguration of Gov. McCrory.

The Democratic rooster will crow louder and longer than he has for a long time on Tuesday, December 12, when Governor-elect McCrory and Lieutenant-Governor-elect McDermott will be inaugurated.

Capt. Wm. H. Able, president of the Jefferson County Democratic Club, called at the office of The Jeffersonian yesterday and requested us to announce that he desired a large crowd at the meeting of the club next Saturday, Dec. 2, at 11 o'clock a. m., when final arrangements will be made for attending the inauguration.

The club proposes to go to Frankfort in a body, and march to the Capitol. Capt. Able has been selected as marshal, and the four country magistrates, Messrs. C. C. Wheeler, R. O. Dorse, H. D. Robb and S. S. Hollis, assistant marshals. Caps, badges and a handsome cane will be supplied to all who join the party.

Capt. Able is very anxious to have all Democrats, and especially members of the Club, to go to Frankfort in a body on the special train that will leave Louisville over the L. & N. at Ten and Broadway. Time of leaving will be announced at the meeting next Saturday.

Plans Part in Inauguration.

At a meeting of the Jefferson County Democratic Club held Saturday morning plans were made for the organization to participate in the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of Gov. McCrory. The club issued an invitation to all Democrats of the county to join with them and march from the train to the capital at Frankfort. Capt. W. H. Able was chosen to act as chief marshal of the parade, and the four County Magistrates, Capt. Dorse, C. C. Wheeler, H. D. Robb and S. S. Hollis, were named as assistant marshals. The members of the club and those marching with them will be supplied with badges.

NEWS

Has Been Scarce in Seatonville Neighborhood.

Correspondent Finds Much, However, To Write About That Will Interest Our Hundreds of Readers.

Seatonville, Nov. 28.—We have been silent sometime because of a scarcity of news. Our quiet little village has had no startling news to relate, but, for fear of being forgotten, we have decided to add a few lines any way.

Wedding Bells Are Ringing.

The wedding bells have already commenced to ring and Madam Rumor says we are soon to lose one of our sweetest girls. It is with regret we write this, as there are so few girls in our neighborhood who hate to lose one, but, for all that, we wish for them happy and useful lives.

Bays Hudson Place.

Mr. Morris Stout, another one of our good neighbors, has purchased the fine farm called the Hudson farm, near Fern Creek. We are glad Mr. Stout is going to live near enough to visit friends and neighbors in this vicinity and attend church here.

Thanksgiving Day.

Thursday is Thanksgiving day. It seems to me that every day we ought to give thanks to God, the giver of all we enjoy. We are blessed above every nation on earth. Thanksgiving is usually spent in eating big dinners, and I think one of our oldest Kentucky boys is to spend it this week in Fairfield, Ill., but will omit names and leave you to guess who.

Drove of Fine Hogs.

We witnessed a sight this morning that reminded us of years ago, by seeing Shake Bros. drive a drove of Shakes to Louisville. That was a common sight years ago, but now they are hauled in wagons. Speaking of the Shake Bros., reminds us of their misfortune by losing two valuable farm horses last week. Both seemed in perfect health, but short time before they died. One was a nice mare they had just refused $185 for a few days ago; the other was about like it. They knew of no cause for their death, as they had fine appetites at the last feed before they died. I feel safe in saying the whole neighborhood join me in sympathy to them.

Hog killing has been the order of the day for at least two weeks and the weather has been fine for the work of curing meat.

Last Sunday was an ideal day; it was bright and the sun shone with power. Mr. E. L. Jorgenson delivered a fine sermon to a large and appreciative audience, it being his regular day at Cedar Springs.

It seems this life is full of regrets; we are to lose another good neighbor. Mr. Tom Reid is to have a sale of his personal property next Saturday and move to Louisville, and while we regret it, we can only, and do, wish them success.

Miss Ethel Mills spent Saturday night and Sunday in Louisville with Mr. E. L. Jorgenson and wife and attended services at Portland Church of Christ. She had a grand time and enjoyed church services very much.

Mr. Lawrence Jones and wife, of Shelbyville, are spending a few days with their daughter, Mrs. William Clark, and Mr. Jones' sister, Mrs. Ora Yeager.

Mrs. Jim Tinnell was called to her old home in Washington county last week on account of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Seay. We hope she found her mother better.

Mrs. Mose Boston, our much-anticipated friend from Kountz, spent last Tuesday with Mrs. K. S. Mills, and I'm glad to say she and family attended church at Cedar Springs Sunday, and they, with Mr. F. C. Jean and family, dined with Mr. F. L. Jean.

Miss Levada Bogard, the popular teacher of Ashville, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her cousin, Mrs. Clarence Omer.

Mr. Henry Frederick and wife, of Buchel, have made several visits to this neighborhood recently in their beautiful new auto. I wish there were more autos in this country and all as useful with them as Mr. Frederick is with his.

WILL RESIST

Payment of Claim For Building Road.

Magistrate Wheeler Thinks $25,000 Too Much For Fairmount Pike—Injunction Is Probable.

Magistrate Charles C. Wheeler will resist any attempt of the Fiscal Court at its next meeting to pay a claim of the Derrett Construction Company for $25,000 for building a road near Fairmount, a distance of two or three miles.

Mr. Wheeler has stated that an injunction suit against the Fiscal Court is being prepared, for filing before the next meeting, which will be held in the earlier part of December.

Magistrate Wheeler holds that the claim is exorbitant in fact, that it is for more than twice the cost of the work done according to an estimate of a special engineer, who was employed to go over the road constructed at Magistrate Wheeler's personal expense.

It is said that other members of the Court will join with Magistrate Wheeler, at the next meeting of the court, in his opposition to the allowance of the claim.

The work involved was on the Fairmount and Floyd's Fork road, the contract for which was awarded the Derrett Construction Company in April, 1910. Russell Gages, County Engineer at the time, estimated the expense at $7,000.

The work is said to have lagged and Engineer Merritt Draue was directed to make a second estimate. He fixed the probable cost at $18,000. Later a special committee was asked by Mr. Wheeler to investigate the progress of the work, and this committee employed Clarence Parsons, engineer, who estimated the cost at $25,000.

The discrepancy in estimates caused the employment of an engineer by Mr. Wheeler. The fourth estimate put the cost at less than $10,000.

The contractor accompanied Mr. Wheeler and the engineer.

The Derrett Company has already received $13,000, it is said, and has asked for more money. The second claim, it is expected, will come before the next regular meeting.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1911.

IRRELIGIOUS FATHERS ARE STUMBLING BLOCKS.

Rev. W. W. Landrum, a leading Baptist minister of our fair metropolis, recently said in a sermon on "Lovable Men and Lovable Homes," that the most besetting sin in the city is the social evil.

"Irreligious fathers are the stumbling blocks of innocent children," he said. "I believe that there are in this city children who will never be saved until their fathers submit themselves and set a right example. What Louisville needs now is a revival of the dignity, duty and responsibility of fatherhood. It is the first requirement, as I see it, and must precede all other reforms in the men and religion for forward movement."

Dr. Landrum's sermon was in anticipation of this movement, and his questions in one hundred letters were asked with a view to finding out what Louisville needed most.

"The old Kentucky home, the dearest spot on earth to us, is threatened as never before by this all-threatening evil, this colossal vice, damning, all-powerful and all-pervasive, social impurity, sensuality, or, in words, the primal foe of the family and the home."

WHAT THE COMMERCIAL CLUB CAN DO.

We spoke of the great need of a commercial club in Jeffersontown last week. Some of the things an organization of this kind could do are mentioned below:

Among the first would be to get our citizens working together along all lines of progress. "In unity there is strength." The club could call attention to our flourishing little bank, newspaper, creamery, etc., and eight general stores, where you can buy anything from a hair pin to a barrel of flour; splendid hotel and boarding houses, handsome houses and hospitable people, and last, but by no means least, the large number of churches, making it easy to find a place to worship God upon the Sabbath, or any other day.

Jeffersontown is a fine place in which to locate a business of the advantages spoken of above. We are 350 feet higher than Louisville, the water is as good, or better, here than you will find elsewhere, and there is plenty of it. There is a healthy growth in the improvement of the town that is bound to appeal to strangers seeking a place to locate. A commercial club could put these facts before the people seeking a desirable location in the country.

We need an electric lighting system, fire protection, canning factory, ice and cold storage plant, lumber dealer, more summer boarding houses, and many other things that the citizens could obtain by an united effort.

WHY LEAVE OLD KENTUCKY.

In this week's issue we print a selected article sent us by Mr. Horace W. Moremen, of Valley Station, entitled "Where The Never Feel the Cold." Where they never feel the cold, according to a St. Paul man spoken of in the article, is in Minnesota. If you read the article you will be led to believe, however, that they feel the cold there, or else they get so cold they can't feel it.

Mr. Moremen sent in this article to show that the weather in old Kentucky is about as good as you will find anywhere. We have early springs and late falls, besides the winters are nothing to compare with those in Minnesota. There they can not plant their wheat in the spring nor harvest it in the fall on account of snow and freezing weather. If it is harvested, it has to be done before it is matured properly. Other Northern states are about as bad as Minnesota, and while the best people in this issue is an exaggeration it is not far from the truth.

It is astonishing why some people will leave Kentucky to engage in farming elsewhere, when we have the most fertile soil, and as good weather conditions as you will find anywhere, excepting the extreme Southern states. We can not see why Kentuckians will leave this state and go where they are compelled to encounter all kinds of hardships on account of the cold and where they are fortunate if they raise anything at all on the farm. Why not stay here, where we have the best soil on earth, the most beautiful country, blue grass land, sparkling streams of pure water, healthy climate, where we raise almost everything, and where the cold weather will not freeze your nose off every time you go out of the house?

WHY THE BOY DIDN'T LIKE THE FARM.

Louisville Times: A rural life conference was held at Kirksville, Mo., a few days ago and one of the speakers told the assembled delegates why he left the farm and went to town to study law. He said:

"When I was a boy on the farm we were compelled to rise about 4 o'clock every morning. From the time we got on our clothes until 7:30 o'clock we fed the livestock and milked the cows. Then breakfast. After breakfast we worked in the field until 11:30 o'clock, then after spending at least thirty minutes in caring for the teams we went to dinner. We went back to work at 1 o'clock and remained in the field until 7:30 o'clock. After quitting the fields we did chores until 9:30 or 9 o'clock, and then we were advised to go to bed right away so that we would be able to do a good day's work on the morrow."

This lawyer's story of his experience as a boy is reminiscent of some of Hamilton Garland's virile sketches of rural farm life in the Northwest. Under such conditions it is no wonder that in the past so many boys have availed themselves of the first opportunity of engaging in a different vocation. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Also it makes him a discontented boy and if he has much of the mettle of manhood in him he will not long endure that sort of an existence.

Conditions on the farms at the present day, as a general rule, probably are not as severe as those described by the Missouri lawyer. There has been agricultural progress since this lawyer was a boy and farming is in many respects a different proposition from what it was in those bygone days of early rising and endless chores. Inventive genius has given the farmer labor-saving machinery which lightens many of his tasks. The greatest of today is a better knowledge of scientific and systematic farming. Better roads and better schools, and more progressive methods on the farm make it a more attractive and active and there will be less disposition on the part of the rising generations to break away from the rural routine.

INK DROPS.

Judge James Quarles was inducted into office as Judge of the First Division of the Chancery branch of the Jefferson Circuit Court Saturday, succeeding Judge H. H. W. Bingham. Judge Quarles is of the type of men needed for such a high and honorable position, and we feel sure that he will acquit himself successfully. Judge Bingham has been one of the most popular judges on the bench. He is liked by both Republicans and Democrats and had he stuck to his party and desired the position, it would have been hard to beat him.

An executive session of the Fiscal Court was held Saturday in the private office of County Judge Muir. The purpose of the session was discussing available sites for a parental home for dependent and neglected children. The committee reported that fifty sites had been looked over and left it to the court to make a selection. No action was taken, but the matter probably will be taken up at the next meeting. Over $40,000 is now available for the building and maintenance of such a year's taxes are turned in.

The inauguration of James B. McCreary as governor and Edward J. McDonald as Lieutenant Governor will take place at the Capitol, Frankfort, at noon on Tuesday, Dec. 12, 1911. All Kentuckians, regardless of party affiliation, are invited to attend. A large crowd from Jefferson county is expected to attend.

The daughter of one of our prominent citizens—so we are informed—has made application for a Carnegie hero medal. She bases her claim upon the fact that one evening recently a young man called on her who said he was dying for a kiss. She saved his life!

In The Jeffersonian editorial last week upon "Organization Necessary For Development of the Town," in which we called attention to the lamentable facts, a number of people praised us for telling the truth and others "cussed" us for the same reason.

A Father's Vengeance.

There would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy, of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help me," he wrote, "so at last I gave up. I tried Electric Bitters and was wonderfully cured from taking six bottles. Its best kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, Tired feeling, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Pain in the back, all cured by the use of Electric Bitters. Beware! Take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at all druggists.

Two-Act Comedy Makes a Hit in Jeffersontown.

Written By Local Girl and Given For Benefit of Public Library, $43.95 Being Realized.

Two very large and appreciative audiences greeted the young folks at Bruce's Hall on last Friday and Saturday evenings, and the two-act comedy was enjoyed by all present. Those taking part acquitted themselves creditably. The play was cleverly written by one of Jefferson's talented young ladies, Miss Virginia Sweeney. She is to be congratulated on her ability as an amateur play writer. Before the play beautiful piano selections were rendered by Miss Daisy Belle Thompson, of Atlanta, Ga., and Misses Vera Cardwell and Mildred Elgin, of Jeffersontown; and between the acts the audiences were highly entertained by violin and piano duets by Mr. Earl Kubang and Miss Mary Alice Cominger, of Louisville. The net proceeds amounted to $43.95 and will be used for the maintenance of the Jeffersontown Free Public Library.

A prize was offered to the one selling the most tickets, and little Elizabeth Kinney, granddaughter of Mr. W. J. Semonin, was the overwhelming victor, having sold 127 tickets. Special thanks are tendered Dr. E. L. Floore and Messrs. Carl Hamann and J. C. Alcock for their valuable assistance.

Thomas-Schoening.

Mr. Louis D. Thomas and Miss Freda Schoening were united in marriage yesterday evening at 5:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Garr's Lane, between Taylorsville and Shelbyville, roads, the Rev. Theo. F. John, of Louisville, officiating.

The parlors were appropriately decorated for the occasion, and the beautiful ceremony that made the happy couple man and wife, was delivered in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. The bridesmaids were Mr. Irvin Thomas, brother of the groom, best man; and Miss Tessie A. Schoening, sister of the bride, bridesmaid.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Thomas, of Jeffersontown, and a bustling young farmer, while the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schoening, and one of the county's most popular young ladies. Both have many friends who wish them a long and pleasant journey through life in their happy union.

A delightful reception was given by the bride's parents at their home immediately after the marriage ceremony, and a large crowd of friends and relatives enjoyed the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will go to housekeeping immediately at the Taylorsville road near Funk's Branch.

SABBATH BELLS.

By D. H. R.

How beautiful the Sabbath bells,
As in liveliest tones they're ringing;
Their silver notes so gladly tell
The mission of their ringing.

When Christ to Bethlehem came down
Many long years ago,
The bells they chimed a welcome.

So let the holy Sabbath bells
Chime out their message clear,
"Ye pilgrims come and worship,
And welcome the Savior here."

THE ROLL-CALL.

As we stand in the ranks in the battle of life
And strive to be faithful and true;
As we follow the Lord of the battle
And do what he wants us to do;
When our brothers around us are falling,
Alas they have failed in the fight—
Do we stop then to lift them to help them.
That they may answer the roll-call at night!

Do you think that the Lord of the battle of life,
When he comes at the end of the fight
To crown the faithful and true;
Will say that we have done what is right?
So let us now turn to our brothers:
Let us help them to rise by our might.
And together we'll stand, and together,
Will answer the roll-call at night.

BY E. POLK JOHNSON

There were but two candidates before the convention, Mr. Parks and Mr. Downey, Mr. Hyatt having concluded to run as an independent candidate. He and Mr. Parks were neighbors and if they did not vote in the same precinct, were certainly near to each other. Our delegation from the Boston precinct supported Mr. Downey, of Middletown, who was a neighbor, and I, as spokesman, cast our three votes for him on all preliminary motions and on the final ballot. Mr. Parks was nominated by a fair majority of the convention, was subsequently elected and made a young member of the House. Mr. Hyatt pressed his independent candidacy for all that it was worth, but, after a spirited contest, was defeated by Mr. Parks, an able statesman. At the close of the campaign Mr. Hyatt announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1871. Then I concluded to try the place. I was a young lawyer, suffering in the law, but had been doing some country work, and no more clients than the law then or now permits one to have. I have never since quite understood why I became a candidate for a position in which I was so unqualified, but I suppose it must have been primarily because the old gentleman before referred to had advised me to become a candidate in 1869. Then, too, there were some friends, and I had a certain amount of youthful ambition to be considered. However that may be, I announced my candidacy, subject to any action the Democratic party might take. The committee, as stated, had made an independent race against the Democratic nominee two years before and had been defeated, but for years had his heart set on the office, and he had, at length, and promptly announced his candidacy against me. He was an old man, I a young one, but a few years before had come from the Confederate States to settle in one of all the Southern armies. Mr. Hyatt canvassed the county thoroughly, never failing to call attention to me as "that boy" who had the impudence to run against him. For many years, fought the battles of the party, forgetting, for the moment, that only two years before he had opposed the regular nominee of the party. He was a man of great power, however, that this former race hurt him much in his contest with me. His mistake lay in fighting me on the ground that I was a young man

EXTENSION

Ol Fern Creek Electric Line Favored by Majority of Railway Board.

A decisive majority of the directors
of the Louisville Railway Company,
it is understood, have expressed themselves in favor of the eight-mile extension of the Fern Creek line to Mt.
Washington, provided the extension
can be built at the price indicated by B. C. Milner, the engineer who made a survey for interests urging the extension, says the Louisville Times.

The matter will be considered at the next meeting of the Board of Directors to be held at 3:30 o'clock
Wednesday, December 20, at which President T. J. Minary states it may take some time to make a final decision in the matter. It is understood that President Minary believes that the extension will cost 50 per cent.
more than the estimate submitted by the engineer. However, the contractor who built the Fern Creek line has expressed his willingness to give bond that it can be built at the price named by Engineer Milner with security to be named by the railway company. The engineer's estimate is approximately $38,000 a mile with right-of-way but as the right-of-way
will be given by people along the lines,
this estimate is cut to $36,000 a mile.
At its last meeting a committee, headed by Mayor W. O. Head and composed of representatives of the Louisville Board of Trade, the Louisville and Buechel Commercial Clubs,
the Louisville Retail Merchants' Association and persons residing between Fern Creek and Mt. Washington, waited upon the Board of Directors of the railway company and urged the need and advantages of the extension in opening up a territory now without railway facilities
of any character.

FAVORS SITE

Of A. V. Thompson, Near Hikes' Point For Parental Home—Action is Only Advisory.

The Louisville Herald said this morning that despite efforts to maintain secrecy, regarding the conference between the site committee of the Juvenile Court Advisory Board and the Fiscal Court, from which newspaper reporters were barred, the fact has leaked out that the committee recommended to the Fiscal Court the purchase of approximately 144 acres near Hikes Point on the Taylorsville Road, half way between Louisville and Jeffersontown.

The property recommended belongs to A. V. Thompson, president of the Kentucky Clothing Company, and it lies in Hike's precinct of the Second Magisterial District. It consists of six parcels, assessed by the county at a total valuation of $16,100. The price placed upon it is $18,000.
Whether or not the recommendation of the committee will be adopted depends upon the inclination of a majority of the Fiscal Court, as the committee, appointed by County Judge Weissinger, had no authority beyond its good offices in an advisory capacity. One of the Magistrates expressed himself dissatisfied with the Hikes Point site, on account of a saloon in the neighborhood, and the fact that the only water on the place is from a spring. Members of the Fiscal Court shortly will take a trip on their own account to inspect sites.

ative Tablets because they are mild.

Closing the Summer Cottage

"Any one would think," remarked the woman who had just got back to town, "that after a person of ordinary intelligence had gone through the agony of closing up a summer cottage every year for years and years she would be capable of doing it with her hands tied behind her back and blind-ers on her eyes, but it isn't so. There is something about the last few days of staying in any place that is distracting, but the country is the worst of all. After getting every last thing done you always need a full day to do the other things you hadn't thought about."

"I always allow for that. Henry never can see why, if he calculates that we can leave Thursday, I always explain to him that we will leave Friday."

"With everything done," he roars
at me in protest. "Why do you think we want to stick around here with nothing to do and everything packed and the fireplace cleaned out so we can't have a fire and the rooms full of porch furniture? It's ridiculous!"
"We will leave Friday, Henry," I tell him soothingly.

"Then everybody works like mad, Thursday morning. Henry always comes in dragging off his work gloves
and sits down with a thump."

"Well," he says, "I've finished up on side. I've covered the flower beds with a mulch of leaves and burlapped the honeysuckle vines and spaded up the garden. I've put away the hose and laid a board over the chimney."

"Go right up and take it off!" I tell him, severely. "How do you suppose we're going to cook lunch and dinner and breakfast and lunch again with the chimney stopped up?"

"Henry has forgotten all about the fact that we still have to eat, so he sleepily clambers up on the roof and throws the board down. It gets split up for landing by the hole an hour later, and there never is another that will exactly fit, so the next season we find chipmunks and mice
and other wild creatures sociably rooming in the cottage when we get there,
and are irritably disturbed at being turned out."

"I don't see," Henry pursues after
he has disposed of the chimney board,
"why we can't take the evening train tonight. Your trunk is all packed—"
"All but the curtains and soft pillows and the candlestick and most of my clothes!" I remind him. "By the way, have you wrapped those dishes
for packing in the basket?"

"That keeps him occupied for some time. Then, too, he finds a punch bowl that he borrowed from the Perkins and forgot to return, so he has to walk two miles with that. Then he has to attend to the man who comes to see about ship back to town, folding two places in the roof that leak and he has to get asphalt and mess around and fix them. Usually he still grimaces at supper time about the foolishness of our remaining over till next day, but I'm so busy fixing the canned fruit to ship back to town, folding away curtains and putting away lamps that I don't mind him."

"In the morning I ask Henry briskly
if he has remembered to take off the window screens and take down the porch screens, bring in the spade and the rake and nail up the broken piece in the fence. That makes him jump hastily and cry out: 'By George! If I hadn't nearly forgot that!'"

"Then when he tries to turn off the water and drain the pipes he breaks a valve or something and he has to make a special trip to the village for help while the cook and the maid and bricks on the leaky places and get soaked and catch awful colds."

"Usually, just as we are locking up the house I remember that I haven't emptied the tank of the kitchen stove, and that reminds Henry that he has completely neglected to empty the hot water boiler. He comes dragging in a watering can, two flower pots and a carpet beater which have been left outside."

"However, we finally lock the last door and start. Half way to the launch
I ask him if he put out the next door neighbor's cat, which had wandered in that morning. Henry is peevish by now and demands to know if I think he has nothing to do but play nurse maid to a cat, so we drop the suitcases and go back and unlock the place, raise all the window curtains and search for the animal. Sometimes we find her and sometimes we don't,
and if we don't I am haunted all winter by the fear that she has died a lingering death."

"Every little while all the way back to the city I jump as I remember something I have forgotten. In the evening I have to argue with Henry over whether I have left the matches loose on the fireplace mantel or not,
or whether I emptied the pint bottle
of ink that will drip over the books
if it freezes and breaks. I can't quite tell whether I remembered to empty
all the flower vases either, and then Henry laid a box full of cigars on the writing table."

"When we reach the city we are so exhausted from weariness and wrath and nervousness that we aren't on speaking terms. 'Oh, it wears out and we get back to normal eventually—and, anyhow, after you've done it over and over again for years and years
you naturally get used to it!'"

SHE LOST ENGAGEMENT RING

Carnegie's Story of Girl Who Took Pledge to the Jeweler's for Valuation.

"I was among the guests at Skibo
when Andrew Carnegie entertained Lloyd George."

"The speaker, a New York millionaire, smiled complacently.
"What a raconteur Andrew Carnegie is, to be sure!" he went on. "At dinner one evening the talk turned to the set of gold clubs he had sent to the president, and some one made a joking remark about the invisible strings attached to the clubs."
"But Mr. Carnegie declared that no strings, no conditions, attached to his gift. 'He said he didn't believe in gifts that could possibly cause unpleasantness, and then he told an appropriate story."

"Two girls, the story ran, were drinking tea and eating scones at Sherry's. The first girl said:
"Maude is so sorry she took Reggie's ring back to Dymon's to be valued."
"Why?" asked the other girl, as she opened a fresh one.
"Dymon kept it. He said Reggie hadn't been in to settle for it according to his promise."

Miss Turkeys and Get Chickens.
Times: On the eve of Thanksgiving day thieves attempted to steal two dozen turkeys at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning at the farm of W. N. Wilhoite, on the Shepherdsville road, near Newburg. The thieves were frightened away before they were able to get the prize birds, making off with but a few chickens. Members of the family were awakened by the squeaking of chickens and the flapping of wings of the turkeys. B. F. Wilhoite, a son of W. N. Wilhoite, was preparing for a hunting trip and had a shotgun packed in a case. Therefore, it was necessary for him to light a lamp to put the gun together and load it. The thieves observed the light and beat a hasty retreat. Investigation revealed that none of the turkeys perched on the fences and in trees were taken.

Popular Couple Weds.
The marriage of Mrs. May Semolina Kinney to Mr. Carl J. Purcell on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, came as a surprise to the young couple's many friends in this community. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Virgil Elgin, pastor of the Jeffersontown Methodist church, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Semolin, at "Lone Oak," in the presence of relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. Purcell holds a position as traveling salesman for a leading business house in Louisville, and is one of Jefferson county's most promising young men, while the bride is one of Jefferson town's most lovable young ladies and popular in social circles. The Jeffersonian joins their hosts of friends in congratulations. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Purcell will reside with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Semolin.

District League Meeting.
Miss Maud L. Dance, third vice president of the Louisville district of Epworth Leagues, is planning a combined literary and social meeting to be held at the Virginia Avenue M. E. church in Louisville Monday evening, Dec. 4, at 8 o'clock. Those who know Miss Dance and her ability to arrange such a program are sure of a very pleasant and profitable evening. All the Leaguers of the district are earnestly requested to be present. The last district meeting was held in Jeffersontown in July last, when two chartered cars conveyed the Louisville Leaguers to this place. Quite a number of the members of the local league will attend the meeting next Monday night. Dr. Wm. F. Stucky, president of the Jeffersontown League, is district treasurer.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be lost forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

WHAT Is the Reason?

By Dr. J. H. JOWETT, Pastor of Fifth Avenue (New York) Presbyterian Church.

NE of the most striking utterances of Dr. J. H. Jowett is as follows:

"You may proclaim the Lord as a great ethical teacher, but the ethics may generate no more energy than the Ten Commandments painted upon the cold surface of the walls of a church. You may proclaim Him as a young man, but the program will no more lift men out of their dead grooves than a party program will lift men out of their dead grooves. The young Prophet, may draw cheers; the uplifted Lord draws men. The young Reformer may gain men's signatures; the sacrificial Saviour wins their hearts."

We may be allowed to say reverently that the biography of God has been written and that it is in three volumes. One volume treats of Him as Father, another of Him as Son, and the third of Him as the Holy Ghost. For many long decades the last was a practically unread volume. So little was said of the Holy Ghost from the pulpit and in books and periodical publications that the people could appreciate, say, with the disciples of Ephesus: "We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." This volume, however, is now receiving more attention.

Biography of Christ.

We may be allowed to say reverently, also, that the biography of Christ has been written. It has three chapters. They may be entitled "Christ the Prophet," "Christ the Priest," "Christ the King." We have among us many who claim to have obtained a clear and adequate view of Christ, but it is safe to say that no clear and adequate view of Him has been obtained by any one who has not seen Him in this official triune.

We must study God as Father, Son and Holy Ghost, for we must study Christ as Prophet, Priest and King.

We four that the Priesthood volume of the biography of Christ is not now receiving the attention which it deserves.

Then, the Priest, the atoning One, the great Deliverer from eternal death, who was pictured as the wages of sin, was held up before the eyes of dying men and women. Much was made of the atoning blood. The "blood of Jesus Christ" was represented as a real and efficacious reality.

The greatest sermons were on the subject of "The Atonement." The penitent at the altar felt that what he was trying to find had been made possible through the sufferings and death of the Son of God, the great High Priest "that is passed into the Heavens, Jesus the Son of God."

Need of the Day.

Christ is still, we are glad to say, the theme of Christian preachers and other thinkers. Men are preaching Christ from the pulpit and platform and in newspapers, magazines, and books as never before in the history of the world. This is an inspiring fact. Yet it is mainly of Christ the Prophet and King that we hear. Christ the Teacher, Christ the Philosopher, Christ the social leader, Christ the Lover of man, Christ the Victor over death and all other foes is a familiar figure. But we are hungering for Christ as a people for something concerning Christ as our great High Priest; of Him who, knowing the need of men, made sin a reality, and made sin a reality for us, "that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." How we long for an old-time sermon on the atonement!

Our plea for a larger place for Christ the Priest in mind, heart and life will receive, we feel sure, only cold disdain from some who tell us that no good can come out of Nazareth or what they call the "old theology." Yet it is a fact written plain on the tablet of common observation and experience that the clean, clear-cut conversions which have enriched the Christian life of the past and are enriching that of the present followed the uplifting of a suffering and atoning Christ. Why should we seek the living among the dead? The saintliest lives are those which enshrine the crucified One. The cry which still deeply touches the divine Heart is the old, old cry so familiar to our fathers and mothers:

Just as I am, without one plea,
But that Thy blood was shed for me.

Things to Remember.

David says, speaking directly to himself in the spirit of gratitude:

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits." He does expect himself to recall each individual favor that God has bestowed, the million of instances in which the divine benefits had fallen into his heart and hand, but he begs his soul not to forget them all. Some persons seem to have forgotten everything that God ever did for them. Indeed, the goodness of God and the kindness of men seem to be alike forgotten by many, even in cases where it was "hard to forget" because of the abundant and almost miraculous care and kindness of both.

These manifold mercies of God, including a countless number of kind words and tender ministries on the part of our earthly friends, should never be forgotten.—Religious Telegrapher.

PUT YOUR TRUST IN GOD

GEORGE R. SCOTT
In Sabbath Reading

OW necessary is it for the business man to put his trust in God to help him through his trials and disappointments. How many hours he has of them. How worried sometimes he is to keep his obligations to others. The business man has peculiar troubles and stands in need of the help of God.

The workman also has hard work to make ends meet; he has a wife and children whom he loves, and to see them want any of the good things of this life makes his heart sore; and what can he do in such an emergency but look to God for help to his hour of need. Workmen are more to be pitied than employers, for they have generally less business ability to overcome obstacles that surround them than those who employ them. The slightest accident and they become financially crippled and stand in need of a father's care and protection. How necessary it is for them to be ready to look to God for help. Generally with no savings in the bank, how deplorable their condition when struck by hard times. Sickness sometimes is their lot, and just at that time how much they stand in need of courage to help them through their difficulties.

Whether we are rich or poor we all are constantly in need of the help of God to assist and comfort us.

God helps those who help themselves.

We all have our peculiar trials and temptations and know not what an hour may bring forth. We cannot get along alone; we need the help of divine help all the time.

Put your trust in God when you are well and when you are sick, for you know not what is to take place in an hour's time.

How pleasant it is to have the assistance of God in the hour of emergency, to be on his arm in the time of need, and to feel that he helps you when you call upon him. How weak we are at times and what good thing it is to know where to go for help. How many times have some of us had the experience of feeling help and assistance when we felt downcast and incompetent to do anything for ourselves.

In sickness and in health it is well to look to God for his blessing upon us. We need his help every day and are dependent upon him for all the blessings that we enjoy. What miserable beings we would be without the assistance of God. To him we are indebted for all the protection from both enemies and friends that comes to our lot, and how thankful we should feel that his watchful care is ever over us.

Great is God's love for us, as shown by the ways that he leads us from temptation into paths of rectitude. Today he takes care of us in answer to prayer and he will do the same thing if we put our trust in him.

Those That Are Happy.

God blesses the fathers and mothers who make it a practice to ask God to bless their families; three happy are the children who have such parents.

You need not ever be left alone to tackle your difficulties, for God's ears are open to hear your requests to be delivered from the darkness, and sometimes surrounds you. Always be willing to receive help from his bountiful hand. Do not ever doubt his power to help you when you stand in need of help from him.

Read his word carefully and pick from it his promises to aid you on all occasions when you most need him. Be always very thankful to him.

Trust God every day in the year, and be always ready to receive his blessings that he has in store for you and yours. Be always thankful for his assistance and keep looking up to him all the blessings that he is so anxious to bestow upon you.

There is nothing so much to be despised as ingratitude to God. He loves the cheerful receiver of his goodness and will remember them when in trouble.

Let your conversation daily be in praise of God for all his goodness displayed toward you. Give him the credit for all of your deliverances from sin and trouble, and so walk through this world that you may have an abundant entrance into Heaven.

Abundantly Able.

The most inspiring thought about this mighty promise is that it reminds us that God himself is the creator of that which he promises to do. He is not confined, in answering our prayers, to resources and materials already on hand, but out of his infinite power and wisdom he can make the thing we ask even out of nothing. Surely this is encouragement to ask the greatest things and to prove all the possibilities of faith and prayer.

Rev. A. B. Simpson.

Big Purchase Sale

OF HIGH-GRADE

Suits and Overcoats

At 60c on the Dollar! For 10 Days Only!

Commencing Saturday, Dec. 2, at 8 a. m.

Owing to the good Fall Clothing weather we sold out the greater part of our stock of Suits and Overcoats. Never before in our business history did I enjoy such a successful early fall business. In the meantime, being able to use a large amount of suits and overcoats, a large Chicago clothing manufacturer, who for business reasons had a lot of goods left on his hands, made a proposition to me to take his entire stock—really more than I could use. I therefore made a cash proposition to take his stock at 60 cents on the dollar. I can now sell you the same suit or overcoat at less than manufacturer's cost. Owing to the purchase of this large stock of fine clothing enables me to reduce my own stock, such as Schloss Bros. & Co., Strouse Bros., High Art Clothing, Namee and other good makes.

Look for Sign and Bears, 216-218 W. Market St., bet. 2d and 3d, Middle of Block.

THE HART'S COMPENSATORY NEW machine with our teeth in which the teeth loosen in the jaw without apparent cause and drop out, leaving the dentist in mystery. In these recent years the general tendency toward blindness has been marked as unusually apparent. Are the electric waves used night and day in wireless telegraphy a cause? Professor Hensingmuller suspects they may be. The effect of electrolysis is marked as it escapes from the cables of a power station. He says that in the sending of a wireless message only one mile that portion of the electrical energy used is only one three-hundred-millionths of the energy expended. The rest goes into the air.—Chicago Tribune.

Better Than Kopenick.

An individual at Temesvar has surpassed the famous Captain von Kopenick; in fact, the German shoemaker is nowhere. The Temesvar hero engaged a gang of thirty workmen, went to a distillery which was closed and instructed them to dismantle it. Following this exploit he demolished a fountain and then sold it with the distillery fittings for old metal. Next he turned his operations upon an avenue and cut down all the trees and sold the wood to a carpenter. Then he vanished into space, and the good people of Temesvar are still in a state of ferment.—London Globe.

Saved Many From Death.

W. L. Mock, of Mock, Ark., believes he has saved many lives in his 25 years of experience in the drug business. "What I always like to do," he writes, "is to recommend Dr. King's New Discovery for weak, sore lungs, hard colds, hoarseness, obstinate coughs, la grippe, croup, asthma or other bronchial affection, for I feel sure that a number of my neighbors are alive and well today because they took my advice to use it. I honestly believe it's the best throat and lung medicine that's made." Easy to prove he's right. Get a trial bottle free, or regular 50c or $1.00 bottle. Guaranteed by all druggists.
